

USAMV BUCHAREST AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS AND POLICY

SUMMER SCHOOL

September 17-21, 2018

“Institutional Economics and Agricultural Development”

Just a few more days until the 2018 USAMV Bucharest Summer School will start!

This year's edition “Institutional Economics and Agricultural Development” will introduce various concepts of defining and conceptualising economic institutions focusing especially on institutions of natural resource use, agricultural production and agricultural markets.

The lecturers, Prof. Dr. Thomas Herzfeld, Dr. Vasyl Kvartiuk and Dr. Axel Wolz are three esteemed personalities from Leibniz Institute of Agricultural Development in Transition Economies, (IAMO), Halle, Germany.

The courses will mix theoretical and empirical analyses of institutions' role in land use decisions, access to agricultural inputs, transactions, and cooperation will be presented and jointly critically discussed and will introduce various conceptual approaches to the theory of institutional change exploring possible links with other theoretical approaches like game theory, political economy and behavioural economics.

This Summer School enjoys the presence of 20 participants of 13 different nationalities (Master or PhD Students and researchers from the agro-economics field), being a unique opportunity for everybody to enrich their cultural background!
